RAPHAEL'S MADONNA OF THE CHAIR, BY ZOCCHI

The gift of Admiral William S. Benson to his mother's Alma Mater is in a copy of the original frame designed by Michael Angelo, which measures four feet wide by five feet high. A gold plate beneath the picture gives the names of the donor, of his mother, whose memory it honors, of the painter and copyist.

IN MEMORY OF THE FIRST GRADUATE OF THE OLDEST COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

In memory of his mother, Catherine (Brewer) Benson, Wesleyan's first graduate and therefore the first graduate of a chartered woman's college in the world, Admiral William S. Benson gave to Wesleyan a beautiful copy of Raphael's Madonna of the Chair, which was formally presented to the college at the first Vesper service of 1929. The Admiral himself was unable to be present for the occasion, and at his request the presentation was made by Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, a graduate of '83, and first alumnae trustee of the college, through whose efforts Admiral Benson became interested in making this gift. Five-year-old Shirley Ann Bakewell, great great great niece of Catherine (Brewer) Benson unveiled the picture. She is also the great great granddaughter of Adelaide Brewer (Corbin) Clayton, sister of the first graduate and herself a graduate of 1841, the second class to graduate at Wesleyan.

Message From Admiral Benson

Mrs. Lamar read the following message from Admiral Benson:

"It is with great regret that I have to forego the pleasure of being present at the presentation of the picture in memory of my mother. I consider it a great privilege to have been given the opportunity of making this offering which may be to the world and to posterity a token of filial affection to the dearest and best of mothers—she who instilled into me the fine principles of right living that have carried me successfully through life, and which is also a token of the splane.

appreciation of the splendid institution, the Alma Mater of my mother as well as of many other noble women of the Southland who have from the beginning exerted such an exalted and ennobling influence, not only upon the South, but upon the entire country."

History of the Painting

In her speech, Mrs. Lamar gave a history of the painting and of the artist. The Madonna of the Chair was selected from the paintings of the National Association of Artists in Florence, Italy, "the most important and carefully selected exhibition of modern art, not only in Italy, but in all Europe," according to Dr. U. Gianesi, director of the Association. The National Association of Artists embraces among its members the most famous Italian artists now living. To be a member it is necessary to belong to the Academical College or to be a professor of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Italy, a distinction acknowledged by the government.

Besides the pictures and sculptures by modern artists, the association collects copies of old Masters. "The one bought for Wesleyan College," said Dr. Gianesi on a recent visit to America, "is a careful and faithful copy of the masterpiece by Raphael, the prince of painters of every century. It was painted by Professor Silvio Zocchi some years ago, his heirs having recently decided to sell it for a division of property."

The picture itself is the most popular picture in Florence, if not in the whole world, according to E. V. Lucas, art critic of London. It is a beautiful rich scene of maternal tenderness and infant peace. With it Raphael conquers even those who do not often fall under his spell. He painted it during his Roman period when he knew life and human affection. It is the consummation of the Renaissance painting in its fullest bloom, a crown of the whole movement, both in subject and treatment.

The First Graduate

It seems especially fitting that the memory of Wesleyan's first graduate should be so honored in this first year on the new campus. Mrs. Benson was not only the first, but one of the most loyal alumnae of the college until her death in 1908. In 1888, at a semi-centennial reunion of the alumnae, she presented her diploma to the college, and it is today treasured by Wesleyan as the first diploma ever granted to a woman by a chartered woman's college. After the presentation, Mary Bennett (Cox) Dunwody, '25, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Howerton.

Admiral William S. Benson

Dr. Quillian in his acceptance of the painting for the college, spoke of the achievements of Mrs. Benson's son, William Shepherd Benson, distinguished both nationally and internationally as the ranking admiral of the United States Navy during the World War, as a member of the committee appointed by President Wilson to confer with Allied powers in Europe in 1917, as naval representative in drawing up naval terms of the Armistice with Germany and the Central Powers, and as naval advisor to the American Committee to negotiate peace.

Admiral Benson was graduated at the United States Naval Academy in 1877. He was awarded the D. S. M. in 1919, French Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, Order of St. Michael and St. George, Japanese Order of the Rising Sun, Order of St. Gregory the Great, and gold medal by the State of New Mexico.

Other Living Relatives

Besides Admiral Benson, two other children of Mrs. Benson are living, Frank Benson of Macon, and Gertrude (Benson) Arnall, A.B., '81, of Newnan. Addie (Corbin) Stone, '90, is a great niece of Mrs. Benson, Margaret Stone and Charles Stone, Jr., great great niece and nephew, Gladys (Stone) Bowen M.B., 1912, of Cincinnati, great niece, and her daughter Adelaide Stone Bowen, great great niece.

There were eleven members of the class of 1840, Mrs. Benson's name alphabetically heading the list. Other members of the class were: Sarah (Clopton)

Pierce, Elizabeth (Flournoy) Branham, Ann
(Hardeman) Griswold, Martha (Heard)
Bealle, Julia (Heard) Elder, Sarah (Holt)
Ward, Matilda (Moore) Brazeal, Harriet
(Ross) Boring, Mary (Ross) Grimes, and Margaret (Speer) Stovall.

On May 26, 1927, eleven descendants of the first graduates gave a reproduction of the graduation scene of 1840. Dressed "all in white like angels" as an article written at that early time described them, the great great granddaughters and nieces filed up to the chapel stage and received their diplomas from the hand of Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, representing Bishop George Foster Pierce. Bishop Ainsworth read excerpts from the first baccalaureate address, delivered in 1840, by the first president of the college.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF ALUMNI SECRETARIES

Alumni and alumnae secretaries of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and South Carolina gathered at the regional conference held in Macon, January 11 and 12 with Wesleyan College and Mercer University as co-hosts. This meeting was one of ten regional conferences held in the United States under the national organization, the American Alumni Council. Mr. A. J. The opening session began at 3 P. M., Friday, January 11 at the Hotel Dempsey, headquarters of the conference. The session on Saturday morning was held at Wesleyan College, in the Student Activities Building. Besides the addresses by outside speakers, there were discussions on various phases of alumni work; The Organization of the Alumni Office, led by Miss Louise Bennett of Shorter; The Alumni Magazine, led by Miss Polly Stone, trustee of the American Alumni Council and alumnae secretary of Agnes Scott College; The Loyalty Fund, led by Miss Jennie Loyall, Wesleyan; The Alumni Secretary's Relation to Publicity, Campaign, Student Enrollment, Undergraduate activities, etc., led by Mr. A. J. Hanna of Rollins.

There was a display of alumni and alumnae magazines, and of various pamphlets and cards used by the various offices at the close of the Friday session.

The guests were taken to visit the P. L. Hay home in Macon, one of the most beautiful residences in the South, constructed 80 years ago at a cost of $350,000.

MISS FLORENCE SNOW
President of the American Alumni
Council, who addressed the conference of alumni secretaries held in Macon.

On Friday evening, Mercer University entertained the secretaries with a banquet at the University. Dr. Spright Dowell, president, made an inspiring address on the aims of alumni work.

Most of the visitors attended the performance of Il Trovatore Friday evening by the San Carlo Grand Opera Company which was concluding a week's engagement in Macon.

Wesleyan College had the secretaries as her guests at lunch on Saturday morning at the new college. At this time the visitors were introduced to the student body, and were welcomed by Dr. W. F. Quillian, president.

FACULTY PRAISES DR. QUILLIAN

At a recent meeting of the Wesleyan College faculty, resolutions were adopted expressing appreciation of the new plant at Rivoli and the part that Dr. W. F. Quillian, president of the institution, has had in its completion.

Speaking for the entire faculty, Miss Agnes Hamilton of the English Department, said:

"We have the honor to work under the leadership of one who had a great vision, and who, by his undaunted courage and his unconquerable faith in God and in people was able to make a vision a reality. His success in doing this was due, in the first place, to the fact that he understood the method of approach to all sorts and conditions of men, from the humblest colored man who faithfully wielded pick and shovel for the college to the millionaire philanthropists from whom he secured large sums of money for the building program.

"The second factor in Dr. Quillian's success was his ability not only to work himself but to do the far more difficult thing, to work with others. He has enlisted the interest and the hearty co-operation of a vast company of friends of the college, and has coordinated their efforts and directed their various activities with the masterful hand of a great general. And it was no exaggeration on the part of one of our trustees when he said: 'We have had in Dr. Quillian a Moses to lead us out of the wilderness.'

"Greater Wesleyan bears eloquent testimony to the ability, the complete devotion and self sacrifice of our president; we, the faculty, desire at this time to add our tribute of appreciation and love."

SON OF FORMER MISSIONARY IS CAMPUS VISITOR

Wesleyan was honored in January by a visit from Arthur H. Allen of the postal service of China, son of the late Young J. Allen and Mary (Houston) Allen, an honor graduate of '58, pioneer missionaries to the Orient.

Dr. Quillian introduced Mr. Allen, and the students rose to honor this son of a distinguished alumna. In a short talk, Mr. Allen told of some of the experiences of his father and mother in the early days, contrasting the steamer he came to America on a few months ago with the small boat they went to China in seventy years ago.

As a missionary Dr. Allen was especially successful in presenting reading matter to the Chinese. He was a true scholar, and spent much of his time writing and translating books for them.

Mr. Allen told of the friendship that existed between his mother and sisters and the two Chinese graduates of Wesleyan, Chung Ling (Soong) Sen, '12, and Mai Ling (Soong) Kai-Shek. On different occasions they warned Mrs. Allen of impending dangers and advised her what to do. At one time of civil strife, Kai-Shek promised her that no harm should come to her.

The two sisters of Mr. Allen, Alice, A.B. '95, and Ethel, A.B. '94, own a beautiful home in Shanghai.

Mr. Allen found someone from "home" in the student body. Elizabeth Manget, freshman, daughter of Dr. Manget, medical missionary to China, knows the Allens well, and had seen Mr. Allen's sisters even more recently than he had himself. They had a pleasant visit after the chapel service talking about their mutual friends and discussing the changes in Chinese conditions since Elizabeth came to school in the fall.

Mr. Allen and his wife spent several days in Macon as the guests of friends.

ATLANTA SENIORS SPEND THE DAY AT WESLEYAN

When Lucy (Evans) Stephens began to plan how the Atlanta Club could bring Wesleyan to the high school girls of Atlanta, the idea came, "Why not bring the girls to Wesleyan?"—and so she did!—179 of them for a Spend-the-Day Party in November!

The most exciting day in the fall at Wesleyan for years and years and without any doubt has been Thanksgiving. But this year even Thanksgiving Day had a rival in excitement and college spirit—November 10—the Day the Atlanta Girls Came to Wesleyan!

For days beforehand all Wesleyan looked forward to their coming and planned for it. On Saturday of their arrival the entire student body took the little Rivoli station by storm and waited impatiently for the special train from Atlanta which brought 179 guests for the Spend-the-Day Party. As the whistle blew miles away, Claire Carter, college cheer leader, jumped up on an express truck to lead the welcoming song and yell. And 179 very excited Atlanta girls stepped off the train to a chorus of

"Hello, Atlanta! Hello, Atlanta! Atlanta! Wesleyan says 'hello'!"

How the Atlanta Club Did It

It was a great moment for everybody, but particularly for Lucy (Evans) Stephens, '98, president of the Atlanta Alumnae Club, who planned the whole trip, forgetting nothing, not even victrolas, coca-cola and cake to brighten the three-hour trip from Atlanta. Since last spring she has had this "up her sleeve," and for weeks before it her committee worked with her on every detail. She invited every high school senior in Atlanta who has taken the college preparatory course. And it is an interesting fact that of 193 who were invited, 179 accepted at once, in spite of a football game in Atlanta on that date!

The Atlanta alumnae paid all expenses, the Central of Georgia Railroad making a special rate for the occasion. A photographer from the Atlanta Journal took a picture of the crowd at the Atlanta Terminal, which appeared in the Journal next day.

All Atlanta High Schools Represented

Seven high schools were represented in the group, Girls' High, Fulton High, Decatur High, Emory High, Washington Seminary, Woodberry Hall, and North Avenue Presbyterian School.

With the seniors came ten Atlanta alumnae: Lucy (Evans) Stephens, '98; Frances (Nunnally) Napier, '03; Annie (Bates) Haden, '88; Emily (Melton) McNelley, '13; Elizabeth (Jenkins) Rece, '22; Laurian Johnson, '12; Annabel Horn, '06, teacher of Latin at Girls' High; Katherine Catchings, '27; Margaret (Zattau) Roan, '26; and representatives from each of the schools: Miss Thyrza Askew, North Avenue Presbyterian School; Mrs. A. B. Burrus, Decatur High; Mrs. Virginia Heath, Washington Seminary; Miss Sara Milner and Miss Susan Leonard, Girls' High; Miss Sallie Shannon, Fulton High; Mr. J. N. Haddock, Emory High; Miss Frances Woodberry, Woodberry Hall.

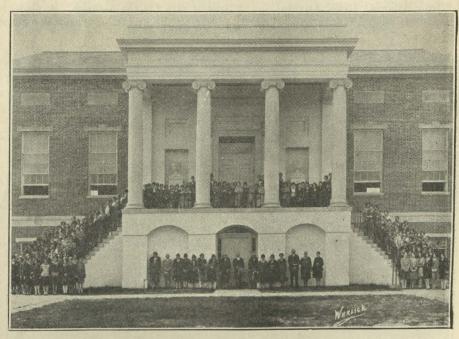

A Morning at Wesleyan

After the enthusiastic greeting at the station, Wesleyan girls took their guests first to their dormitory rooms to leave their wraps, for it was a glorious sunny day, more like the middle of June than November.

Then, in groups of four or five, with Wesleyan hostesses, they examined every building from attic to ground floor, asking questions with the air of prospective buyers and even, in many cases, claiming some particular room in the freshman dormitory for next year.

At 1:30 the lunch bell rang, and they went into the new dining room for one of Mrs. Hudgings' "special" luncheons. The program in the dining room included a brief welcome from Dean Wiggins, an introduction of the alumnae and principals of schools by Mrs. Stephens, music by Wesleyan's xylophonist, Kathryn Silknitter, and a telegram from the President, Dr. Quillian, who was attending the South Georgia Conference at Columbus: "A hearty Wesleyan Welcome to our Atlanta guests. Every wish for a most pleasant visit, and a speedy return."

THE ATLANTA HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ON THE STEPS OF THE CANDLER MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Assembly, Swimming, Riding

After lunch there was a short assembly in the gymnasium. Dean Wiggins spoke on the "three things that a girl should consider in choosing her school: its past, its standing among colleges, its equipment and chances for development." Martha Cooper, Helen Goodman, Clifford Clark and Annie Louise Page told the high school girls about student organizations, publications and social activities at Wesleyan.

Then the visitors were given a chance for some first-hand experience in how Wesleyan girls spend their leisure! Miss Grote, director of physical education, opened the new swimming pool to them. Horses waited outside the gymnasium saddled for use; hostesses produced riding togs and bathing caps (bathing suits were furnished by the gymnasium as they are for students), and every high school senior seemed to forget that she had risen at the break of day to catch the Macon-bound train and had walked over every foot of the twelve buildings that day!

The Farewell Tea

After swimming and riding (or both, in the case of some tireless ones) they returned to the Students Activities building for a tea. Miss Maude Chaplin, head of the Department of Home Economics in the conservatory with a number of the faculty and students as her assistants, was in charge of the tea, and the series of "date parlors" in the Students Activities building were appropriately dressed for their first real "tea." Many Macon alumnae were present to meet the Atlanta girls.

At 5:15 the station at Rivoli was again crowded with girls, quite as full of pep as they were when they arrived in the morning. They gave "fifteen rahs" for everybody, beginning with Mrs. Stephens. They sang to their several schools and to Wesleyan. Even after they were on the train they began a new one: "Wesleyan, That's My Weakness Now!"

What the Atlanta Girls Thought of It

"Wesleyan means to us now not only a place of beautiful buildings and fine standards, but more—a place of friendly hands and voices," wrote one Atlanta guest from North Avenue Presbyterian School. Emory High declares that it was "one of the biggest days in our high school life." Decatur High, North Avenue Presbyterian School and Washington Seminary promptly had special chapel programs to tell their schoolmates all about the trip. And Eulalia Napier, daughter of Frances (Nunnally) Napier, A.B., '03, wrote the following article for the Decatur New Era:

Saturday, November 10, the senior girls of Decatur high school who plan to attend college were the guests of the Wesleyan

LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF THE ATLANTA HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

Alumnae of Decatur and Atlanta on a trip to Macon to visit Wesleyan College.

From the start the day promised to be one of pleasure and enjoyment. With cheers and shouts of joy nearly two hundred Decatur and Atlanta girls boarded a Central of Georgia train at seven-thirty in the morning. Several alumnae accompanied us, as well as representatives from the faculty of each school, Mrs. A. B. Burrus representing Decatur High.

At Rivoli station, where the new college buildings are located, we were met by Wesleyan girls and were taken in groups to view the new buildings After an hour or so of inspection of the campus we gathered in the spacious dining room where we were served a delicious luncheon After having lunch we assembled in the gymnasium and heard splendid talks from several of the students who represented various organizations of the school The choice of riding horseback or of swimming was given us, and another delightful hour was spent in this way.

As a fitting climax to the day a reception was held in the large parlors and we had the opportunity of talking to the Wesleyan girls and of learning still more of the school. Besides having the unique distinction of being the oldest woman's college in the world, Wesleyan is a college of the highest rank and one of the best in the United States. The buildings are wonderfully equipped, having the latest modern conveniences and leaving nothing to be desired in the way of beauty or comfort.

At 5:30 we left the station with a last look at Wesleyan, and each girl with the hope in her heart that next fall she would be returning to stay.

THE ATLANTA CLUB SCORES AGAIN

By sponsoring the Tony Sarg Marionettes they clear over $600.00 for the Alumnae Building Fund.

At the Atlanta Theatre on January 22 the Atlanta Club sponsored a matinee and night performance of Tony Sarg's Marionettes and cleared more than $600 for the Alumnae Building.

On December 28 scarcely before the last of the turkey hash had disappeared Lucy (Evans) Stephens called the executive committee to a delightful luncheon at her home where well-laid plans were enthusiastically launched. Virginia (Fraser) Pratt was made general chairman of arrangements with Anne (Trippe) Rambo and Nannaline (King) Byrd in charge of the theatre. Other committee chairmen appointed were as follows: Emily Jane (Wimpy) Fraser, ushers; Maybelle (Jones) Dewey, tickets; May (Wooten) Brower, telephone; Elizabeth (Baker) Taylor, Katherine Catchings, Lucy (Evans) Stephens, publicity; Margaret (Zattau) Roan, advertising; Lucile (Dennis) Walker, patronesses; Floy (Oliver) Jeter, schools, assisted by Emily (Melton) Mc-Nelley, Elizabeth (Jenkins) Rece, Floy (Powell) Dumas, Laurian Johnson, Catherine (Flanagan) Griffin, Regina (Hays) Asher and Della Ione (Manning) Green.

On Sunday, January 13, the Atlanta Journal announced the Wesleyan benefit with a streamer head on the club page. From that day on the Atlanta public was reminded in every conceivable way that Tony Sarg was coming and under the auspices of the Wesleyan Alumnae. (And incidentally they were reminded of Wesleyan.) The Constitution carried a picture of Sarg in its rotograve section. Rich's store carried an announcement boxed in the center of a full page ad. There were additional pictures in the Journal, Constitution, and Georgian. There were announcements on the society pages and in the list of amusement's for the week. There were announcements in P.-T. A. meetings, there were street-car posters. Invitations were sent to the clubs of Marietta, Newnan, and Griffin (Decatur being a very valuable part of the Atlanta club.) Anne (Bates) Haden, past president, gave a box party for twelve guests. Marion (Graham) Perdue who sent her four daughters to Wesleyan and whose sons married Wesleyan girls had a Third Generation party. Many alumnae had parties for their young sons and daughters, Lucy Stephens, Lucy (Candler) Heinz, Helen (McCrary) Randall, Floy Jeter, Nannaline Byrd, Virginia Pratt. Alice Baxter wrote from San Diego, Cal., sending her good wishes and buying a ticket.

B. N. DUKE MEMORIAL

Benjamin N. Duke died in New York City on Tuesday, January 8, and was buried in Durham, N. C., January 10. Several years before his death, Mr. Duke became interested in Wesleyan College, and made the largest single gift to the college during the campaign to build a new plant on the new campus.

A memorial service was held at Wesleyan Monday honoring Benjamin N. Duke, financier and philanthropist of New York and benefactor of Wesleyan, who died January 8 in New York City.

A picture of Mr. Duke was displayed in the chapel where the service took place, and Dr. W. F. Quillian spoke to the student body as follows:

"Mr. Benjamin N. Duke, who died in the City of New York Tuesday, January 8, was a Christian layman and philanthropist. Mr. Duke and his brother, the late James B. Duke, began life in North Carolina, selling the products of their father's farm in the streets of Durham. They became interested in the tobacco industry, and in this way laid the foundation for their immense fortune. Later they became interested in real estate, railroads, and water power rights of North Carolina.

"Mr. Benjamin Duke was in hearty sympathy with his brother in the establishment of the Duke Foundation which has placed Duke University of North Carolina among the most highly endowed universities of the United States. In memory of his son, Mr. Angier Duke, Mr. Benjamin Duke established a loan fund of approximately $1,000,000 to be used by students of Duke. Gifts were made to various other institutions.

"In the campaign for Wesleyan College, Mr. Duke gave to Wesleyan 1000 shares of Duke Power Company stock, which at that time were worth approximately $110,000. This stock has enhanced in value, and at this time is worth considerably more.

The picture of Mr. Duke has been on the walls of Wesleyan since this gift was made, and his memory is highly cherished. He was a man of high purposes, great soul, and of strong Christian character. During the closing years of his life he was a great sufferer, but never lost his interest in church and in the various institutions to which he had made contributions.

"His gift to Wesleyan made possible the completion of the million dollar fund and the erection of the new plant which has involved the expenditure of nearly two million dollars. Such men are an inspiration to the forces of righteousness and they deserve richly the reward of the blessed. He was buried in Durham, N. C., on Thursday, January 10. God buries his workmen, but carries on his work."

In conclusion, the students sang, "Faith of Our Fathers."

THROUGHOUT THE GENERATIONS

In the fall of 1928, 157 new girls entered Wesleyan College. Of these, 125 are freshmen; 32 are transfers from other schools. Among their close relatives are 107 Wesleyan alumnae; 2 great grandmothers, 9 grandmothers, 12 mothers, 38 sisters and 46 aunts.

Two freshmen who entered Wesleyan in September have a heritage which few students in all the world can claim; they are great granddaughters of college alumnae. In the days when women were thought incapable of learning beyond simple reading and writing, the great grandmothers of these two were studying at Wesleyan the same subjects taught in the men's colleges of that day.

Eleanor Eunice Whitehead of Macon is the great granddaughter of Mary A. E. (Freeman) Thomson of the class of 1841, the second class to graduate from Wesleyan. She did not graduate, but completed the work in the junior class.

Marian Wrigley of Greenville, S. C., is the great granddaughter of Caroline Catherine (Wade) Riley, a first honor graduate of the class of 1848.

Other Alumnae Relatives

These two early alumnae must have gone out with a great love for their alma mater, for Wesleyan was the choice of most girls in the families of both. Eleanor Whitehead numbers among her relatives who came to Wesleyan a grandmother, Mary Eunice (Thomson) Whitehead, '69; a great great aunt, Catherine Freeman, A.B., '45; five aunts, Eunice Thomson Whitehead, A.B., '94; Mary (Whitehead) Mathis, A.B., '03; Lula (Taylor) Houser, A.B., '93; Nora (Taylor) Houser, A.B., '99, and Miriam E. (Taylor) Smith, music student in '09; and four cousins, Delia (Jewett) Morton, A.B., '58; Seaton (Taylor) Purdom, A.B., '03; Mary Rix (Bryan) Lawrence, '92; and Eunice Thomson, A.B., '25.

Eleanor has the badge of the Adelphean Society which belonged to her grandmother. Mary Eunice (Thomson) Whitehead.

Marian Wrigley's two grandmothers came to Wesleyan; Georgia Carolina (Riley) Chambers, A.B., '70, who lives now in Spartanburg, S. C., and Annie (Mellard) Wrigley, '68. Marian has both grandmothers' Philomathean badges. Two of her great aunts came to Wesleyan, Ida (Frederick)

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

Three golden wedding anniversaries of interest to Wesleyan were celebrated in November, 1928; Mr. and Mrs. William S. Payne of Macon, on November 13 (Mrs. Payne was Cecelia Willingham, '73); Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lowndes of Atlanta, on November 20 (Mrs. Lowndes was Loula Dozier, '73); and Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Cheatham of Macon, on November 21. (Mrs. Cheatham was Mattie Pritchett, '76.)

The following paragraph from The Atlanta Constitution gives an interesting picture of the customs and styles of the day when these three alumnae were married:

"Recalling the strict etiquette surrounding a marriage of 50 years ago, Mrs. Lowndes stated that it was decreed a bride-to-be of that day should be virtually a secluded person for weeks before the wedding, was the guest at no social functions, all the affairs planned in her honor following instead of preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Lowndes' wedding gown was of gold and blue changeable taffeta, fashioned with a polonaise, and the full skirt swept the ground in front and trained on the floor in the back. The tight-fitting, high-necked bodice buttoned on the side, the sleeves were long, and the gown was trimmed with dark blue taffeta. She wore a blue felt hat ornamented on the side with delph blue feathers which encircled the hat and was the last word in modish sophistication of the day; and the hat was perched precariously on the top of a heavy knot of hair. Her high, black kid shoes were buttoned to the top with something like 18 or 20 buttons, and it was in this costume that she traveled from Columbus to Macon and thence to Atlanta."

MR. AND MRS. W. S. PAYNE, SR.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Payne, Sr.

On November 13, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Willingham entertained in honor of their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Payne, Sr., who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

In the quaint write-up of their wedding of 1878, was a description, not only of the costume and beauty of the bride, who "looked like a goddess and walked like a queen," but also of the groom who wore a "handsome black suit and white cravat." According to the account, "all the social world of Macon had been in a quiver of excitement for weeks in expectation of the event."

Mr. Payne has been for many years a prominent figure in the Macon business world. He had interests in the Payne Mills and in the Willingham - Payne Furniture Company. He now heads the W. S. Payne Insurance Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne have three children, a son, W. S. Payne Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. R. G. Grove of Atlanta, and Mrs. Marion Willingham of Macon. Mrs. Grove's two daughters, Cecelia and Eldridge, assisted their aunt at the informal reception in honor of the golden anniversary. W. S. Payne, Jr., has two sons, William S. Payne III, and Calder Payne, and one daughter, Mildred (Payne) Breaux of New York City. They have one great grandchild, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Breaux.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lowndes, Sr.

From the Atlanta Constitution, November 25:

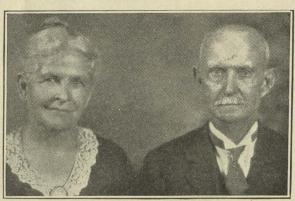

November 20, 1928, marked the fiftieth year that Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lowndes have successfully navigated, shoulder to shoulder, the ship of matrimony. Surrounding them were three generations of their family, as the passing of this eventful milestone likewise celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams of Columbus, whose daughter, Mrs. John Key, and her one-year-old son, Jack Key, Jr., represented the three aforementioned generations.

Back in the days of 1878, when the little woman of this exceptional partnership first met her Prince Charming, she was visiting in Atlanta as Miss Loula Dozier at the home of her best friend and schoolmate, Mrs. Otis Jones, who became Mrs. W. G. Sadler after the death of Mr. Jones, and now resides in Grantville. These two charming young women graduated together from Wesleyan College, in Macon, and their intimate friendship has lasted through many years.

Mr. Lowndes came to Atlanta from Yanceyville, N. C., a young tobacco merchant whose office was on the site where stands today the Trust Company of Georgia building, and he became one of the most successful business men of this community, having accumulated quite a fortune, one of his monuments being the Candler Building annex on Pryor Street, formerly known as the Lowndes building and erected by Mr. Lowndes.

The children, grandchildren and greatgrandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Lowndes include: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, the latter having been Miss Maude Lowndes, the members of their family, including Mr. and Mrs. Richard Desport, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Key and son, Jack Key, Jr.; Harry Williams, Jr., Carlton Williams and Miss Maude Lowndes Williams of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Rust, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lowndes, Jr., and sons, George Lowndes III and Billy Lowndes of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Holland Lowndes, Miss Evelyn Lowndes and Holland Lowndes, Jr., of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Montgomery, George and Arthur Montgomery; Dozier Lowndes and his daughter, Miss Helen Dargan Lowndes of Atlanta.

Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Cheatham

Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Cheatham celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on November 20, when children, grandchildren and friends from over the South came to do them honor.

Dr. Cheatham was for 20 years the state drug inspector, a position he held from the creation of the office by the Georgia legislature until a year ago. Before that time he was one of the best known druggists in the state, operating a drug store at the corner of Third and Mulberry Streets, opposite the post office building and known as "Cheatham's Corner."

Dr. and Mrs. Cheatham had 13 children, 10 of whom lived to be grown. Fourteen grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and a few life-long friends of the couple were present on the golden anniversary. Members of the immediate family who gathered in Macon were Dr. Thomas A. Cheatham, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. R. J. Stewart, Gray; Warren Cheatham, Birmingham; Miss May Cheatham, Atlanta; Guy C. Cheatham, Elbert Cheatham, C. A. Cheatham, Walter L. Cheatham and Mrs. C. L. Ridley, of Macon.

Soon after their marriage, Dr. Cheatham bought a little four-room cottage on Second Street, where all their children except Mrs. Ridley, the eldest, were born. As the family grew, the house did likewise, having nine rooms in it when it was sold in 1908. Friends laughingly told stories of Mrs. Cheatham's thrift when the children were young. Her eye for bargains was uncanny. She attended all remnant sales, bought good values in lace, buttons, and gingham. When her supply warranted it, she hitched up her horse and drove into the country, returning with half a dozen chickens, a country ham, and fresh vegetables which she had exchanged for those bargains not used in her own family.

THANKSGIVING IN 1928

Thanksgiving Morning Watch, an annual custom at Wesleyan, was the beginning of the great day. Morning Watch was held in the Grand Parlor in the Student Activities building, and we felt anew a thankfulness almost too deep for words for the room itself, and the building, and all the buildings on the new campus.

The program included a violin duet by Gladys Moss and Nancy Stewart, a song by Margaret Boyd, the history of Thanksgiving by Martha Cooper, Scripture reading, several Thanksgiving hymns, and a closing prayer by Dr. Quillian.

THE BASKETBALL GAMES

After breakfast came the basketball games, of course, the first in the new gymnasium, and much more exciting than ever because everybody could see every play without having to fight for her "small corner" in the balcony as of old. The cheer leaders gloried in the extra space, and yelled through all the games instead of between halves as in the old gymnasium (that being the time when the teams were resting and they might stand in the middle of the court to lead yells).

The seniors (Red and White) defeated the juniors (Lavender and White), while their sister class, the sophomores (Gold and White) won over the freshmen (Green and Gold). The freshmen, however, staged an overwhelming comeback in the games following Thanksgiving, and outplayed both juniors and seniors, winning the championship for 1928. It is an interesting fact that their team, with one exception, were captains of their high school teams last year, and while they are sadly lacking in height (the two forwards, Blanche Wannamaker and Blanche Duvall, look as if they might be ten years old in their little green and gold suits) they cannot be surpassed for team work and swiftness.

Immediately after the games the entire college, as of yore, adjourned to the "Pharm" to celebrate their victories and drown their sorrows in chocolate sodas. (The new drug store has become "The Pharm" already, and it was gaily decorated in the four class colors.)

TROPHY ROOM

The championship cup for basketball, as well as others for soccer and tennis, has a place of honor in the "Trophy Room" in the gymnasium, an attractive room with gay curtains and rugs furnished by the Athletic Association. In it the Athletic Board holds its meetings, team captains have conferences, and members of the association have informal gatherings.

THE BANQUET

The banquet, beginning at 3 o'clock, fittingly carried out the idea of the coming of the Pilgrims to a new land. The Pilgrims are the girls, of course, and the new land the new campus. Eleanor McDonald in her toast "To the Mother Country" told how the Pilgrims, both of 1620 and of 1928 felt about changing their homes:

"Not without tears and sadness
Did the Pilgrims leave their shore,
Not through loving England less
But through loving freedom more.
And after they had settled
In this land across the seas
Thoughts of friends and kin in England
Were their dearest memories.

"Dear old home upon the hill,
We honor, love, revere thee still;
We love your stairs, your towers, halls,
The memories within your walls.
Birthplace of Wesleyan—here's to thee
Close to our hearts you'll ever be,
We'll say, as on thy site we stand,
'This is our own—our native land'!"

There were toasts to the trustees as the good ship Mayflower which brought the pilgrims to their new land, to the spirit of Thanksgiving, and to the brave leader of the pilgrims, given by Elizabeth Malone as follows:

"William Bradford led the Pilgrims
To prosperity and peace,
And on the first Thanksgiving
They celebrated with a feast.
"And so on this Thanksgiving,
Our first in this place of fame,
We honor the leader who brought us here.
(His first name is the same.)

"He has been cheerful when others
Gave up in utter despair;
He leads us wisely, lovingly,
He is always fine and square.

"So we Pilgrims give a toast—
He is one in a million!
Our William Bradford is
Our own Doctor Quillian."

The class songs seemed cleverer than ever this year. The sweet "forever and ever" kind are rather in the background now, and there is a sort of matching of wits in the songs as there is a matching of skill in the games.

ALUMNAE BACK FOR THANKSGIVING

The class of '28 were back 18 strong at the banquet, and under Dot McKay's leadership, sang their class song to the Green and Gold. The class of '27 had a larger number back for Thanksgiving than is usual for the class who have been two years away, for they came especially to initiate the sophomores into the Order of the Golden Heart. The list of alumnae who were back either Thanksgiving Day of the week-end following included:

1928

Salome Anderson, Katherine Armstrong, Marian Arnall, Edith Belcher, Beatrice Chandler, Margaret Chapman, Louise Clark, Virginia Creel, Sara Lee (Edwards) Whatley, Miriam Hill, Marjorie Jacob, Do Mc-Kay, Carolyn Lockette, Maria Mann, Marguerite Matherson, Annie Mays, Elizabeth Padgett, Katherine Royal, Martha Watts, Ruth Welch, Lorraine Wilson.

COUNCIL MEETING IN MARCH

The meeting of the Council of the Alumnae Association will be held on Friday, March the first, in the college parlors at Rivoli. The national officers, the executive committee, class secretaries, club presidents, and alumnae trustees are invited. The college will be inspected under normal working-day conditions and the business of the Association will be transacted. For the first time nominations for alumnae trustee will be made at this meeting. All guests are invited to spend one night in the college, either Thursday night preceding the conference or Friday night following it, according to their convenience.

PROCTOR ESTATE DEEDED TO WESLEYAN

An estate valued between $50,000 and $75,000 has been deeded to Wesleyan College by W. J. Proctor, of Columbus, Ga. Mr. Proctor was formerly an engineer of the Central of Georgia railway.

During his lifetime, Mr. Proctor will retain an interest in the estate and a monthly income of $100 for his brother, J. B. Proctor of Meigs, Ga. The property transferred consists of about 38 houses and lots in Columbus with rentals from $10 to $22 a month.

SCHOLARSHIP TO HONOR DR. BELK

In memory of Dr. S. R. Belk, pastor of Grace Methodist Church in Atlanta, and trustee of Wesleyan College until his death last May, the Grace Methodist Sunday School has placed a scholarship fund of $1,500 at Wesleyan. Dr. Belk established the Belk Lectureship Fund in 1924, the first endowed lectureship in a woman's college in the South. He was for 19 years a trustee of Wesleyan, and was attending a meeting of the board last commencement when he was stricken with a heart attack which resulted in his death.

COLLEGE ENTERTAINS CIVIC CLUBS

The Rotarians and the Kiwanians were the first of the Macon civic clubs to visit the new college in a body. The Rotarians took lunch at Wesleyan on October 17, and the Kiwanians dinner on December 13. All of the civic clubs in turn will be entertained at the college. This is a plan of Dr. Quillian's by which the Wesleyan girls may become acquainted with these men who have done so much for the welfare of the college, and the club members may see for themselves what the college is doing today.

CLASS SPONSERS

Mrs. R. L. Wiggins, wife of the new dean, is sponsor of the freshman class. The idea of class sponsors originated last year, when the seniors elected Miss Agnes Hamilton sponsor of their class. The sponsor is social adviser of her class, and as a general rule, the self-appointed chief rejoicer in their athletic victories and chief sympathizer in their losses. Miss Virginia Wendel is sponsor for the seniors this year, Miss Leona Letson for the juniors, and Miss Helen R. Bartlett for the sophomores.

PROFESSOR QUILLIAN'S RELATIVES SURVIVE VESTRIS DISASTER

Two heroic survivors of the Vestris disaster recently were the niece and nephew of Professor and Mrs. M. C. Quillian of Wesleyan. The two were in a life boat which was about to be lowered when Mr. Slaughter gave up his place to two women, and dropped into the sea, leaving his wife in the boat. In a miraculous way they were reunited, after each had tossed about in the sea for hours and had been rescued by different ships.

WESLEYAN MODELS FOR RICH'S STORE

December 1 was "Wesleyan Day" at Rich's store in Atlanta, and a number of Wesleyan girls went to Atlanta as the guests of the store to be models in a fashion show held at the lunch hour.

The Atlanta Journal carried the following history of Wesleyan before the occasion:

"Deeply ingrained in the heart-history of the State is Old Wesleyan. The college was founded, an early historian tells us, 'on a high hill, by a few friends of female literature.' It began work on January 7, 1839, and has the honor of being the first in the world to grant degrees to women.

"A particularly happy illustration of Southern expansion is the Greater Wesleyan, opened—not on a high hill, but on broad acres, September, 1928. Here is luxury—the kind of luxury that ministers to body, mind, and heart. Here is the finest fruit of a goodly heritage."

The girls who made up the party, accompanied by Miss Wendel, councillor of women, were:

Allie Stephens of Atlanta, Nel Mullis of Roswell, N. Mex., Rebecca Oxford of Dawson, Eleanor McDonald of Bolton, Elizabeth Fort of Columbus, Helen Clark of Augusta, Martha Pate of Hawkinsville, Caroline Parsons of Hawkinsville, Christine Quillian of Macon, Naomi Welch of Pelham, Katherine Tanner of Carrollton, Frances McNeill of Tignall, and Frances Rice of Elberton.

SPIRIT OF WESLEYAN

There are two Wesleyan busses now, the Yellow Cab Company having discovered in less than three months that one was not sufficient for the college. The new one is larger and even better equipped than the "old" one, a little darker in color, and named "The Spirit of Wesleyan." A prize of five dollars was awarded for the winning name to Mabel Harris of Dothan, Ala., the first of nine students who submitted this name.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services were held at the college November 26 through 31, led by the Rev. Dr. Arthur Moore, pastor of the first Methodist Church of Birmingham, Ala. Dr. Moore preached twice daily, the services being largely attended, not only by students and faculty of the college, but by friends from the city.

GOLDEN HEART ALUMNAE INITIATE SOPHOMORES

The class of '27 handed down their symbol of the Golden Heart and their class colors, gold and white, to the present sophomores, the class of '29, in a secret meeting Thanksgiving afternoon. The guests of '27 were entertained later with a reception in the sophomore parlors by the new Golden Heart class. Those who formed a committee from '27 to initiate the new class into the organization were:

Mildred Gower, president of the Golden Heart in '27, Frances Bush, Annie Laurie Daniel, Annie Mae Johnson, Gladys Lewis, Kathleen McCowen, Marguerite Miller, Emily Neel, and Berthine Osborne.

Claire Carter was elected president of the Golden Heart.

CONCERNING THE WESLEYAN BELL

The following letter was received from W. W. Carnes of Tampa, Fla., after the last issue of The Wesleyan Alumnae:

"Yesterday I received a copy of The Wesleyan Alumnae for November, 1928, and I spent last evening reading it through with much interest.

"In the article about the college bell, and the ring made by Mr. Van Valkenberg, I notice one error which I think it well to correct for the information of all concerned. A paragraph states 'it is believed that the Napoleon gun, into the making of which went the Wesleyan bell, was lost in the battle of Chickamauga.' That could not possibly be true, as the Confederates lost no artillery from the completely routed enemy. The Confederate army lost many artillery guns at Missionary Ridge in November following, and it may be that the gun was lost there.

'Wesleyan Female College was the cause of my first visit to Macon in 1862, as my sisters were at school there as refugees from Memphis, and when I had a sick furlough after the Kentucky campaign I went there to see my sisters.

"That caused me to meet my wife. So Wesleyan has always had a prominent and pleasant place in my memory.

"When I was last in Macon I drove to the site of the new college, though construction had not begun at that time. It appears to me from reading the description of the new plant that such extensive buildings were erected in very good time, and that the present buildings must be a great improvement over the old college."

MRS. PENNYBACKER LECTURER ON MASTER ARTISTS' SERIES

Through the influence of Annie (Bates) Haden, A.B., '88, Wesleyan secured as one number of the artists' series this year, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, educator, lecturer, philanthropist, historian, traveler, and prominent clubwoman, who lectured February 7 on "The Road to Understanding."

Mrs. Pennybacker has been to Europe many times, but during the last three years has gone each September with one fixed purpose, to observe post-war conditions and to sit as a press representative of three daily newspapers in the assembly of the League of Nations.

SUPERLATIVE GIRLS FOR 1929

Each year The Veterropt, college annual, carries the pictures of the superlative girls at Wesleyan, selected by popular vote of the student body. This year they are:

DEDICATION OF THE VETERROPT

The year-book for the first year on the new college campus is dedicated to Miss

Banks Armand, for 23 years bursar of Wesleyan.

When the dedication was announced in November, there was only one person on the campus who was at all surprised, and that was Miss Armand herself. For the second time this year she wept with joy. (The first time was on the day when the college moved out to Rivoli, and she looked out of her office window on the brick and marble realization of the years of planning.)

There are probably few college bursars, men or women, who can equal Miss Armand in accuracy and efficiency. From the time 23 years ago, when she had no assistant to the present, when she directs six separate departments, she has never checked up one penny short in her accounts. She handles the Wesleyan College operating accounts, the Greater Wesleyan subscription accounts and collections, the building fund, with a separate set of books for the cost of the new plant the Wesleyan endowment fund, including all details of investment and income of the endowment, the loan and scholarship funds, handling all applications and details, and supervises the business office of the Conservatory.

Yet Miss Armand is not only the efficient bursar. She is among the truest friends of the college; every good thing that comes to Wesleyan delights her far more than her own good fortune. Her heart is unchangingly in her work and in the college. Last year Wesleyan entertained the financial benefactors of the college, and Miss Armand was among that number. She has studied in the Conservatory and is numbered among the alumnae. The dedication of the Veterropt honors Miss Armand as official, alumna, friend, and benefactor of Wesleyan.

CLUBS

STUDY CLASSES SPONSORED BY GROUP VIII

Group VIII of the Macon alumnae, continuing the study club which was begun last year with a series of Bible lectures by Professor G. E. Rosser, sponsored eight programs at the home of Edith (Stetson) Coleman on College Street this year.

The first four of the Monday night classes consisted of Bible lectures by Dr. W. F. Quillian and Dr. C. R. Jenkins. The concluding evenings of the series were given over to musicales by different members of the conservatory faculty, Mr. and Mrs. Maerz, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Howerton, and Miss Kennon, each one giving a brief lecture on some historical or interpretive phase of the program.

These classes were voted such a success by those in attending that Group VIII has decided to make them an annual group activity. A charge of $2 was made for the entire series, and the proceeds went into the Alumnae House Fund. Group VIII already has $251 in its treasury for this year, and is planning other activities.

RECITAL SPONSORED BY MACON CLUB

Group Twelve of the Macon Alumnae, with Florence (Trimble) Jones as president, presented Grace (Laramore) Hightower, A.B., B.M., '20, Linda (Anderson) Lane, A.B., '19, and Josephine (Franklin) Reid, graduate in expression, '21, in a recital at the Wesleyan Conservatory November 1.

Grace Hightower, with what Professor Maerz calls a "gorgeous contralto voice of the Louise Homer type" and "Bee" Reid, with her "smallish stature and snappy eyes and dark hair," delighted their audience as they did when they were students, while Linda Lane played a faultless accompaniment for Grace.

Group 14 of the Macon Alumnae met with Elizabeth Winn and Harriet Evans in December, and new officers were elected.

Louise Stubbs succeeds Frances (Peabody) McKay as president; Annie Laurence Riley succeeds Harriet Evans as vice-president; and Alberta Bell succeeds Ruby Tanner as secretary and treasurer. The club is making plans for class reunions of '25 and '27.

CARROLLTON CLUB

From the Carrollton Free Press:

Herndon, Mrs. W. C. Cantrell, Mrs. W. J. Weaver, of Daytona Beach, Fla., Miss Montie Brooks, Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Miss Emily Landrum, Miss Isabella Harris, Miss Margaret Hearn and Miss Sue Tanner.

IONES COUNTY CLUB

The Jones County Club met at Wesleyan College in November. The members of the club came from Jones County in cars before lunch, had lunch at the college, and held their business meeting in the Grand Parlor. Sue Ellen Morton, '20, of the French Department, a member of the Jones County Club, was hostess to the club.

Sallie (Barron) Ellis, president, presided at the meeting. Several Wesleyan girls took part on the program. The club brought with them eight high school girls from Jones County who were the guests of the college for the day.

HAVE YOU EDUCATION ENOUGH?

The good old days are gone. With long skirts and long hair and woman's-place-isin-the-home went that comfortable feeling "now I am educated" that came to all college graduates with the new diploma and the graduation presents. Possibly the psychologists started the trouble by firmly and repeatedly stating that one really can take in a new thought after the twenty-first birthday has passed. Then the colleges and universities took it up saying that "some education for the educated must be provided," that "education should be a continuing process" (continuing throuout one's life!), that education for the first twenty years of life is merely a "bountiful breakfast" for the intellect, and (woe unto us) that this intellect needs three large and diversified meals instead of the one it has been receiving.

Of what shall the other two intellectual meals consist? The colleges are answering this question in many ways. Dartmouth began in 1920, with Reading courses—prepared by the faculty and distributed to such alumni as requested them. Michigan University in 1927, announced the most elaborate program offered yet when President Little launched their now famous "Alumni University." He proposes "To keep our graduates in touch with the educational and research activities in our University which relate to subjects—perhaps hobbies—in which they are particularly interested." And —most important—Michigan has the funds with which to develop this plan.

Reading courses, reading lists, readers' advice, short courses and institutes, intellectual homecomings, radio programs, graduate placement service, educational articles in alumni journals, lecture courses, lending books from the college library, educational addresses by the faculty members, publicity concerning the vital work of the college are offered by other colleges.

Since you must receive more education, what will your order serve you by your college? Wesleyan's efforts constitute a mere beginning, but they have been successful. On December 3, at the home of Edith (Stetson) Coleman, '97, alumnae trustee, was held the last of a series of eight programs arranged by Group 8 of the Macon alumnae. This group organized the "Monday Night Study Club" a year ago and at that time offered a series of Bible lectures by Prof. Rosser of the faculty. This year the program consisted of four Bible lectures by Dr. Quillian and Dr. Jenkins, and four interpretative music recitals given by Mr. and Mrs Maerz, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Howerton, and Miss Kennon of the Conservatory faculty. This Study Club promises to be an annual institution.

Last year Group IX of the Macon alumnae arranged a "Psychological Institute for Mothers and Teachers," with lectures by Miss Harrelson of the education department. Due to the success of this institute, Miss Neill and Miss Willman of the faculty are giving this year, similar lecture courses to two local P. T. A. associations.

The few Radio programs which have been given by the Conservatory and the alumnae from stations WSB and WMAZ have been splendid. But we need a radio station of our own before we can emphasize this feature.

The Council Meetings of the Alumnae Association in November of 1926 and 1927, have been typical "Intellectual Homecoming Days" with the alumnae upon the campus during normal school days and learning from the faculty members the progress and plans of the college. The Council Meeting this year will be "bigger and better" now that our new dormitories enable us to offer hospitality to our out-of-town club presidents and class secretaries. It will be on March the first.

What new dishes shall we prepare? One of Directed Reading? Smith College has done the most notable work in this direction. Beginning in 1924, her Alumnae Association sent out lists to each alumna requesting them. So popular have these lists become that Smith is now furnishing them to libraries and individuals also at 50c a list or $6 for the complete set of 24 lists. This year they have had 1500 requests for lists, No. 13, the one on Child Psychology, being the most popular.

Or maybe you would like a short educational conference at the college? Vassar has had successful ones in her new and spacious Alumnae Building on Poetry, Reading for Children, Progressive Education, Gardens, the Novel of Today, the subject being determined by the interest of the alumnae. The conferences were intensive, some of them lasting only three days.

Or—just what would you like? The college which gave your intellectual training is the logical source of supply for your intellectual need today. What is that need? This is for you to say. Is it for your leisure, or for your general stimulation, or for your professional guidance?

So important in the educational world has this question of the continued intellectual relation of college and graduate become that educational leaders are taking active measures to face and solve it. To this end, during the college year 1927-28, the Carnegie Corporation financed a survey made by the University of North Carolina under the direction of Daniel L. Grant, former alumni secretary. Its purpose was to discover the after-graduation experience intellectually of four thousand alumni of fourteen colleges in different parts of the country. Since Wesleyan was one of these fourteen institutions, we will be specially interested in the results when published.

To this end again, in October at Vassar, a joint meeting of a committee of the American Association of Adult Education and of one from the American Alumni Council was held to consider the question. The Alumni representatives were Mr. Tyson of Columbia, Mr. Allis of Amherst, Miss Snow of Smith, Miss Sawyer of Vassar, Mr. Morrill of Ohio State, and Mr. Shaw of Michigan; those of the A. A. A. E. were President Little of Michigan, President Coffman of Minnesota, President Neilson of Smith, President Jessup of Iowa, Director Leonard of T. C., Columbia, and Mr. Grant of North Carolina. The findings of this meeting will be developed and announced later. They should be significant.

STUDENTS OF THE FUTURE

In bringing 179 high school seniors to spend the day at Wesleyan, the Atlanta club performed one of the most important services possible for an alumnae organization. They introduced to their alma mater 179 of the best prepared high school students of the state. The Atlanta secondary schools are unsurpassed in Georgia. Of their approximately 400 seniors who will graduate in June only 190 are taking the college preparatory course. The majority of these accepted the invitation of the Atlanta alumnae and paid a visit to Wesleyan. Many liked our plant and felt the contagion of the Wesleyan spirit. These we hope to have with us next year as satisfied and well-prepared freshmen.

The number of students who go to college continues to increase each year, there being a 25 per cent. increase for the last five years. The enrollment of full-time students this year from 216 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada is 417,526. The University of California leads with 17,337 full-time students; Columbia is second with 13,691; Illinois third with 12,-150; Minnesota fourth with 11,815, then Michigan with 10,954, New York University with 10,711, and Ohio State with 10,293.

The ten largest exclusively women's colleges are Hunter (4918), then Smith, Wellesley, Florida State, Vassar, Mount Holyoke, Goucher, Radcliffe, Randolph-Macon, Elmira.

Which colleges will receive the best of this ever-increasing stream of college students? In a large measure, it will be those colleges whose alumnae seek out and interest the high school student in their alma mater. Wesleyan wants her new halls filled with the best college material available. This is easily possible if the other alumnae clubs will follow Atlanta's example.

CLASS REUNIONS IN MAY, 1929

Attention, Girls of '88!

If you read the Wesleyan Alumnae, you know that our class is scheduled to have a reunion at commencement in May. Our dear old Alma Mater invites us to be her guests; shall we accept? If you had been at the last commencement; if you could have attended the opening exercises at the new plant in September; if you could have had the privilege of going again in November with your local club, I can assure you, you would be so eager for this reunion that you could not wait for next May to come.

Sallie (Barron) Ellis and I were the only ones of our class, except Macon girls, that attended the last commencement, but there were girls of other years and it was such a joy to see them. Can you imagine meeting your roommate of forty years ago and having her recognize you instantly? This actually happened and the thrill of seeing dear Jewel Johnston again goes with me to this good hour. There were other thrills, of course, many of them, but just being back mongst the old scenes with everybody so cordial that you felt quite at home made you wish for every one whom you knew in days gone by.

Then the first opening out at Rivoli in September—what a revelation! Everything so beautiful and so modern and yet like the old in spirit. My heart rejoiced to see the "Oldest and Best" taking the forward step that, as Bishop Candler said, marks a new day in her history,—and there must be new days, you know.

When Miss Loyall and Miss Morton, who is one of our members now on the Wesleyan faculty, invited our Jones County Club to meet at Wesleyan with them in November, do you wonder that we accepted hilariously? A real old-fashioned "spend the day" we had, with lunch in the beautiful new dining hall, a tour of the grounds and buildings with the "Grand Parlor" as we would call it (Editor's note: and as we still call it, for old sake's sake) turned over to us for our meeting.

Among the student's was Georgia Ficklen Shankle's daughter, Julia Victoria. I was happy to meet her and to see much of the mother in the young daughter. O girls, you will just have to come and see it all for yourselves. I wish I might call you each one by name and inspire you with the urge that is in me, to meet me for a good time at Wesleyan next May.

Belle (Stewart) Wootten, '88.

Dear Class of 1889:

I am delighted to learn that our class of '89 will have a reunion this year, and I am looking forward with great pleasure to meeting a great many of my classmates. Seems hard to realize that it has been forty years since that beautiful June 19, 1889, when 35 of us stood in the chapel and Dr. Bass presented our diplomas. Many of us have not met since that day.

We were such a happy, congenial class; wouldn't it' be wonderful if we could "come back" after forty years? Seven of our number have died, Annie Lou (Coleman) Angle, Sadie Phillips, Stella (Moody) Proctor, Eva Moorehouse, Emma (Tate) Hinton, Lizzie Ragland, and Aline (Hodgkins) Meadows.

I hope we will all remember dear old Dr. Smith's favorite advice, "Tut, tut, girls, never say you don't know; you can do anything if you try hard enough," and try very, very hard to meet at Wesleyan, May 25, 26, 27, for our reunion after forty years!

Mamie (Hawkins) Jones, '89.

Dear Girls of 1889:

1889-1929. How much has happened to each one of us during those intervening years! Now will you not put forth every effort to be at our class reunion this May and give the rest of us the pleasure of knowing about you? We want to know of your life in general, all about your children and all you intend to do!

Then all of us must see Greater Wesleyan—a dream indeed come true. How fine it will be to see Wesleyan's progress and what fun it will be to "think back" to our years at Wesleyan. If perchance in your chests there is stored away a dress of your college days please bring that along and all else you have reminiscent of those great days.

Will not each one of you write me a card to Summerville, Georgia, letting me know that we can count on you being there.

Let's pull together-once again.

Allie (Cleghorn) Pitner, '89.

Dear Classmates of '89:

Breathes there a single one of you with soul so dead that you do not thrill over a Wesleyan Commencement? You dare not acknowledge it, for the rest of us will dub you as really old.

One isn't supposed to thrill much after leaving the twenties, but here is one grand-mother, nearing the sixties, who gets a great big k—, (shades of my Wesleyan teachers, pardon me!) thrill every time she even passes by the wonderful new Wesleyan on the Rivoli road.

If you did not come last year, when we went out to inspect the new buildings, you must surely come this year when they are finished and furnished and have been lived in. When you have seen them in all their beauty and magnificence you will determine that all your grandaughters and those of your friends shall be urged to matriculate at Wesleyan.

Going to Wesleyan Commencements has always had for me something of the significance that "going up to Jerusalem" had for the pious Jew. As a little girl, in the long ago, I used to trudge up College Hill to the old chapel and sit entranced while the Wesleyan girls, my ideals of perfect young ladyhood, came on the stage, sang, played, and read their essays—on themes as high as heaven and as deep as the sea. Then great preachers, lawyers, and educators gave their inspiring sermons and addresses, and last and best of all came dear Dr. Bass' fatherly baccalaureate.

Emulation, inspiration, aspiration—all of these things did Wesleyan Commencements mean to me. During the forty years since my graduation, I have attended the commencement exercises whenever possible, and always they have brought spiritual and intellectual renewal.

Last year there was the added pleasure of seeing the expansion and new setting of our dear old school. And this year, if the girls of '89 gather from Idaho, Texas, New York, Florida, and Georgia, we will have such a jolly good time that even if we have lost that school girl complexion, we will find by the thrills we feel that we still have the school girl heart.

MEET ME AT WESLEYAN IN MAY Annie (Laney) Watson, '89. 1905

Dear 1905:

"How I wish I could be at Wesleyan for the reunion! The University work here will be in full swing the last of May as we do not close until June 12 and I am to teach in summer school. But I shall be thinking about all the '05 girls and wondering how we all look, and if we really have changed in twenty-four years. Surely it cannot be that long! It seems only yesterday that we were calling classmeetings and planning class day. Certainly, it has not been that long since we put on long skirts to show that we were really grown when we took our Latin finals in our sophomore year. And I cannot be there to talk all those exciting days over with the other girls!

"For that reason I am appointing an excellent reunion committee—Nan Shaw Richardson, Aline Bradley Boykin, and Nona Johnstone Gresham. I am sending the best of good wishes for a 99% reunion."

Margie Burks,

University of Illinois.

Greetings to the Girls of 1905:

For many years it seems to me I have been waiting for the "powers that be" at Wesleyan to decide when the class of '05 could have a reunion, and at last they have invited us to be present this commencement. Now, girls, you all know we never did do anything halfway, so let's start saving now, or if that is not necessary, at least let us start planning now so that every member of our class will answer to her name when the roll is called and that '05 will begin the class reunions at Wesleyan with the best attendance, the greatest pep and the most spirit of any who will assemble there.

Already I have hunted up the magazine that contained all our class songs and if we can just get Mrs. Shinholzer, Mrs. Burks, Professor Hinton and a few other of our best friends to be there also, why the past quarter of a century will be forgotten and we can be girls again, if only for a few days.

At any rate, let's all be present and show this younger generation that Wesleyan is still our "Alma Mater," that we love her and wish to do her honor after all these years. Hoping to see every member of our class in May,

Ophie (Guerry) Smith, '05.

Do you remember this? We are using this class call again to summon you to our class reunion next commencement. Use the class roll in this magazine and begin each of you to write to every one of the others to meet you at Wesleyan next May! We hope to hear from all of you that you are coming.

Dear Girls of Naught Six:

I am wondering if you are anticipating our class reunion the last of May as much as I am. In looking over the class list, I found there were only seven out of our sixty whom I have even seen in passing during these twenty-three years since we left Wesleyan's classic halls. I am perhaps further away than most of you, but it would not be surprising if a number have not had a similar experience. So let us come and renew auld acquaintance, and exchange experiences in the good old girlhood fashion. I am already making plans toward that end, having suggested to my husband that the last of May would be a wonderful time for him to give the family a change of scenery. He concurred with the plan, and we are hoping to drive through, all of us, and make this our summer trip.

Wesleyan is fortunate in having a large number of loyal alumnae, and 1906 should not place herself in the position of being weighed in the balance and found wanting. Altogether aside from the educational advantages afforded, we owe to Weslevan a debt of gratitude which we can never repay. Recognizing our obligation it should be our pleasure to give such evidence of our appreciation as we are able. Speaking for myself, Wesleyan gave to me an intangible but nevertheless very real something which I revere and which has had much to do with whatever ideals have been woven into the fabric of my life. As students we lived day by day in an atmosphere of inspiration and high endeavor, where culture and Christian living went hand in hand, one an adjunct of the other, and both dignifying each other.

For six years after graduation it was my privilege to visit most of the leading American universities and high rank women's colleges, and in none of them did I ever find that happy and well balanced coalition which existed at Wesleyan. We rejoice in our hearts to know that it still exists in spite of the cultural trend of the times and in the face of spiritual doubt and unrest.

We are happy in Wesleyan's greatly enlarged program, as well as in this wonderful heritage. The achievements of the past few years are a source of pride to all of us, and I, for one, am anticipating the first reunion in the new buildings on the new campus with the keenest pleasure. Then, too, I must see for myself if there are really marble baths and sunken gardens! We all love Wesleyan and those things for which she stands, so let us again meet in her hallowed walls, reverencing and holding fast to the old, welcoming and rejoicing in the new, and giving ourselves the joy of renewing old associations and friendships.

Cordially yours, Louise (Monning) Elliott. 1907

Dear Girls:

I have watched the announcements for years hoping it would be our turn to "reune," and had just decided that 1907 was completely lost from the list. Imagine how delighted I was when it was posted that 1907 girls were invited to commencement in 1929!

I can hardly wait—and I hope all of you are coming! Can you realize that it's been 22 years since we graduated? I hope the bobbed hair and short skirts will keep us from looking that much older, don't you? Girls, it's worth making a trip just to see how young and pretty Nannaline King looks! Maybe she'll make Dan bring her two handsome boys down from Decatur for at least one day so we can all see them first hand. I haven't seen Julia Coney's or Blanche Chapman's children, but I hear both of them have most attractive ones. I'll let you judge for yourselves about my seven-year-old boy and my twelve-year-old daughter when you get here. Couldn't we have one day when the "fond fathers" should bring all the children so we could have them "on exhibit"? But after that day send them home with "Papa" while we have a free time together and forget responsibility.

If you haven't seen the new Wesleyan, it will simply take your breath. I've been out there many times, and I haven't caught mine yet.

Most of us will have to brush up on science if we aren't going to feel humiliated when we talk to Sara Branham and Ella Clare McKellar. But I tell you what, if they try to hand us any "high-brow stuff" we'll just start a discussion of "child training."

Now, girls, please start planning now to come. I want to see every single one of you. Won't it be fun to hear Elizabeth Moseley rave over "Bill" and "Lighthouse Keeping"? Love to each of you, from Willie (Erminger) Mallary, '07.

Dear 1908:

In my very youthful youth I had an old nurse who, when her charge grew obstinate and insisted she could not do an apportioned task, always calmly rejoined—"Yes you kin." And somehow I did it.

Yes you "kin" come to our reunion except in rare cases. Of course you in your heart of hearts want to come but you see several mountains directly in your path to prevent. Begin now to realize that they are just molehills after all.

It's a privilege to come back to a reunion—to see each other again after these many years and know in which directions our many paths have taken us. It will be a happy time to get together and also to see in all its beauty—Greater Wesleyan. If you haven't had that privilege you have much in store.

We want you—we're expecting you—100%—1908.

Maybelle (Jones) Dewey, '08.

DEAR WESLEYANNES OF '24—OF THE GREEN AND GOLD,—OF THE ROUND TABLE,—OF THE MARCHAL NIEL ROSE,—OF MY "PRIDE AND JOY":

We, who gathered in the reception room at Wesleyan in the spring of '24 and pleaded for the "2—7—0" to help realize a Greater Wesleyan, are invited to Rivoli to see our bricks which have been molded into massive structures that shield the greatest spirit ever entertained by a college. Our invitation is for the commencement of '29, so we have only a few more months, and then:

"Hello! Where is your husband?"

"You brought the baby?"

"Are you still teaching school? Poor thing!"

"You look grand!"

"Where did you get that darling dress? Let me wear it to the luncheon."

Say, doesn't that sound contagious? And you can't afford to miss it; don't forget that!

Remember the commencement of '24; remember our last night in the Crow's Nest; remember our linking hands, singing "Day is Done," saying we could never forget, promising to come back; remember? Then come, and help us sing,

"Our banner, our motto, our spirit will stand, 'Tis the class '24, best in the land!"

"Tommie" Maxwell, '24.

Dear Class of '25:

I can hardly realize that we are really going to have our first class reunion in June! Already I'm pepped over the thoughts of seeing and being with my dear class again.

Just think of all the things we'll have to talk about! Husbands, housekeeping, and all that sort of thing will be discussed, I'm sure. (Due to the fact that I won't be able to talk very intelligently about the above, I want to urge all the "maiden" members of my class to be present, please, so I won't feel so lonely and out of place.)

I know all the married crowd will be there without fail for they'll have to rave about "him" and tell us how adorable Junior is, etc. Can't you hear them now? Boots and Lou Berry will no doubt be able to give us the very latest recipes for I hear they have developed into marvelous cooks. (Believe that if you want to.)

Anyway, if you don't want to miss a big time and don't want to stand a chance of having the whole class talking about you—you'd better meet us at Wesleyan in May!

My love always,

Celeste Copelan, '25.

Dear Class:

When I heard that our class is to have its first reunion in May, my first thought was, "It can't possibly be time for us to reunite!" And I immediately dashed to the mirror to look for gray hairs and wrinkles, because I have always thought of a reunion class as having to be helped up the chapel steps and having granddaughters whom they send to Wesleyan with a combination of touching loyalty and exceeding good judgment. Then I remembered that a number of my classmates will have, not grandchildren yet, but certainly children to brag about when they come to Wesleyan in May, and that I myself am a set'tled spinster of long pedagogical experience.

Then I remembered a great many things at once: all those fair damsels I used to make love to at midnight rehearsals on the Wesleyan stage; that "peck" of Dynamite I used to follow around on the basketball court; the wise Isabella, whom I haven't seen since the days we used to wax argumentative together; Fritz Kaplan, who was Chicago's other big bum when I was one; Lucille Wilder and that wicked serve; and a host of others. I wondered if Dot Thomas (as was) would get there from Detroit and if New York could spare Jigger Dykes long enough for her to make a little trip. And by the time I had thought that far I was so excited over all I would have to say and hear at the reunion that I no longer remarked, "Is it time for our reunion already?" but instead, "Do we have to wait until May to have it?"

Of course I am coming! If my school won't let me out, I will calmly set fire to it and walk out, defying anybody to run me in as an incendiary character. Really, I can hardly wait!

Yours.

Mamie Harmon, '26.

Dear Class of '26:

Let it be moved right here and now, seconded and adopted that someone between now and next June invent an instrument known as the hearall so we can hold a big meeting up in the gymnasium, set all our tongues going at once and hear everything everybody says all at one time. Then we could sell our instruments or even rent them to the other classes for the benefit of our pledges. The only flaw I can find in that perfectly magnificent idea (Ef I do say so ez shouldn't) is that inventors seem a little scarce.

I'll never go away satisfied unless I hear all about Carrie Lou's Y. W. work in Greenville, Mary Alma's teaching in Dublin, Peck's Jacksonville experiences, Katherine's marvelous times in Marshallville.

Just think how many people will be there! Dot will come down from Chicago to tell us how it feels to live in a city made famous by Carl Sandburg and sharpshooting gangsters; Claudia will breeze in from New York and give our reunion a Fifth Avenue air. Wouldn't it be wonderful if Kwe Yuin could sail to us from the Orient? We can gather them in from the four corners of the earth, let alone the United States. Sarah will be bringing us a breath of Florida sunshineand didn't I hear she had gone to Europe? She and Merrell will in all likelihood be the globe trotters of our class and speak reminiscently of "when I was in gay Pa-ree." Won't it be fun to hear them?

I want to offer a bit of advice, learned through sad personal experience, to alumnae of '26 who are returning for the first time. I feel almost like printing it in large letters, for I wish somebody had been kind enough to do me the same way. BRING A CHART AND COMPASS WITH YOU. Don't, don't attempt alone and unaided to make your way around those halls. Voluminous is the only word that describes them. If you can't beg, borrow or steal a guide, tie a rope around you and attach the other end to the doorknob of your room so that when you get lost you can return and not have to sit down and wait' for someone to find you.

Oh, but it's the loveliest place! no matter how lost you may get, you never can get beyond the beauty of it. And always, everywhere, there's the same old Wesleyan spirit of which we were and are a part.

Class of '26, the buildings may be many and magnificent, the plant may be larger and prettier than we'd ever hoped for in our pleasantest dreams, the library and the gymnasium may make us feel that we'd stepped by mistake into fairyland, the campus compared to our old plot of ground may seem like the wide, open spaces, but there's no mistaking the feeling of the whole place. It's our same beloved Wesleyan, exactly the same.

Let's meet each other there in June in our old-new home at Rivoli!

Isabella Harris, '26.

Dear Classmate:

Our class is to have its first reunion this commencement! Isn't that ideal? There should be nothing to keep any of us away! Of course you'll be there. You'll just have to be!

While some of you will be telling about your "sweet apartment" I and my other so-called-less-fortunate sisters will vie for first honor in telling "the worst thing my children ever did in school" or "the hardest question I've had to answer."

Think of all those beautiful new buildings so many of us will see for the first time! You'll feel like Alice herself, for truly Wonderland could never have been more wonderful. I couldn't speak a word for fully ten minutes when I first saw that dining room! It's far too interesting a place in which to try to do any eating. There are classrooms that have desks entirely too pretty to write on, ever! (We did have fun wondering whose initials those were carved on our desks with dates—1898-1877, etc.) The gym would never call forth the desire to "cut gym," and the infirmary is a fit setting for sweet Mrs. White.

Words fail me entirely when I try to describe the grand Grand Parlor. You must see that for yourself. And the "date parlors"—think of being able to say that in the plural and mean more than two!

Be sure to catch up on your sleep before you come. You'll never get any at night for talking and listening, and you can't possibly sleep in the morning for looking.

Be sure to meet me at Wesleyan!

Mildred McLain, '27.

'27, on to Wesleyan!

Get on the train or in a bus or car;

Our sisters will be queens this graduation. Let us be there from near and far,

Delighting each other with lively conversation,

Enlightening everyone as to our various careers:

Nothing can be learned from what one hears.

Here a tea, there a tea:

Entertainments will be the rage.

All of you just must see

Rivoli and Wesleyan, realization of dreams of an age.

Together at new Wesleyan let us hold our first reunion jubilee.

I'll be there this May. You, too?

Alberta Bell, '27.

Dear girls:

Greetings to you all from the wilds of North Carolina! It is not really "the wilds," but it is woefully far from the temples of learning I once frequented so happily.

These two years out of school have been so long, haven't they? We are so scattered, and I don't think it's one bit nice. I've moved all around the country in that time and acquired a husband. I've been initiated into the gruesome details of buying groceries and hanging curtains. In fact, I'm washing dishes and—liking it!

What of you all? I'm so happy over the reunion, and I'm looking forward to it the most in the world. I wonder how many of the plans we told at Senior Banquet have worked out? Truly, we must gather in the historic chapel (if new colleges boast of them) and tell the story of our lives.

I hear such marvelous things of Rivoli, and I wonder if I'll know how to be nonchalant among Japanese lakes, and riding horses, and suites de luxe!

Please let's all try to be there. I'm so anxious to see you all, and I'm sure Miss Loyall will furnish a referee if we all try to talk at once.

Love from one who now wields a canopener.

Fairfid (Monsalvatge) Candle, '27.

IN MEMORIAM

JULIA M. DIXON, A.B. 1860

Julia M. Dixon, oldest resident of Louisville, Ga., and one of Wesleyan's oldest graduates, died October 18 after an operation. She had passed her 86th birthday in October, and until just a few days before her death was able to attend to all of her business affairs. She was a first honor graduate of her class, and was always a wide reader and a brilliant scholar. In former years her flower garden was one of the show places of Louisville, and she was especially interested in the propagation of roses. Surviving her are two sisters and many nephews and nieces.

ANNIE (CHEATHAM) CHITTY, A.B. 1878

An honor graduate of the class of '78 which held its fiftieth anniversary reunion last year, Annie (Cheatham) Chitty died in October after an illness of seven weeks. She was born in Dawson in 1855. Following her marriage to J. J. Chitty, she lived in Alabama, moving to Ft. Gaines thirty years ago. During her residence there she won the hearts of the entire community with her nobility of character and true Christian spirit. She is survived by three children, one brother, and three sisters, Belle Cheatham, A.B. '79, Charlie (Cheatham) Laing, A.B. '84, and Fannie Cheatham, A.B. '84.

MARY (JACKSON) DAVIS, A.B. '75

Word was received in Atlanta January 7 of the death in New York City of Mary (Jackson) Davis, newspaper writer and daughter of the late James Jackson, chief justice of the Georgia Supreme Court. She was a great granddaughter of Governor James Jackson, United States senator and Revolutionary War general.

For many years she served as society editor of the Atlanta Journal. In the late nineties, she married Webster Davis of New York and moved to that city, where she maintained her connection with the paper as correspondent.

JULIA (KENDRICK) DURE, '54

Julia (Kendrick) Dure, one of the oldest women of Macon, died January 5 at the age

Born the year Wesleyan was chartered, on a plantation near Washington, Ga., she attended Wesleyan in 1850-'51. Later, she married Captain Dure, a captain in Jackson's artillery during the War Between the States. Mrs. Dure saw a great deal of the Old South during war days, and was considered an authority on Georgia history.

Besides her sons and daughters, she is survived by five grandchildren. Mrs. Mitchell McRae of Cordele, one of these, is an alumna of Wesleyan.

In the magazine section of the Telegraph early in December was an article by Augusta (Streyer) Miller called A Typical Old Southern Mansion. It is about "Echota," the home of Mary (Holtzclaw) Robeson who graduated in 1886. In the same year Mr. Robeson received his degree from Emory. In speaking of her girlhood, Mrs. Robeson's eyes twinkled merrily, "Macon is just like home to me. I have many pleasant memories centering there, particularly around Wesleyan where I spent my college days. I loved the old school so dearly that I decided when my girls were just little tots to send them there too." Her daughter, Mrs. W. K. Boardman of Marietta, Ga., will be remembered as Miss Mary Robeson, a member of the graduating class of 1914 and Mrs. C. E. Lovett of Atlanta, who as Miss Harriett Robeson finished in 1916.

Ida (Killebrew) Wood's address is c/o Wood Lumber Co., Birmingham, Ala. She lost her husband ten years ago. She has two sons, William Wadsworth and Allen K., and three daughters, Mary Wood Nicholson, Sara Wood Dawson and Martha Wood.

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. A. Douglas (Jennie Martin), Sanford, Fla.

Jennie (Martin) Douglas writes: "I sincerely hope all of us can attend the class reunion this year. I am planning to be there."

The class of '87 deeply sympathizes with Jennie (Turnbull) Sloan in the death of her daughter, Dr. Mary Bailey Sloan of Monticello, Fla. Jennie is director of residence halls of the Florida State College for women, and a number of teachers and students of the college attended the funeral, December 10. Jennie was one of the most lovable girls who ever came to Wesleyan. She was one of seven Florida girls who graduated in 1887.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. F. Stone (Ida Lowrey), Blakely, Ga.

"I've written quite a number of personal letters, but want here also to call the attention of the class to the notes of the Reunion Bugle that are summoning them from far and near to assemble at the new Wesleyan in May. 'Twill be a time of mingled emotions, the joy of meeting after the long lapse of years will be to some extent dimmed by the sorrow with which we'll 'turn down an empty glass' for those who will no more answer the roll call. The years have taken their toll of us, but let those of us who are left come together on the next commencement, (to which Wesleyan invites us as special guests) and renew the old associations."

I. L. S.

Annie (Bates) Haden may resent my frequent use of her name, but her life is "so full of a number of things" for her that I know her out-of-the state classmates who do not see the Georgia papers, enjoy hearing about her. I won't dwell on her 33rd wedding anniversary, which was spent by the happy couple in Washington, D. C., and which Mr. Haden made a gala occasion by a series of delightful surprises, but will pass on to mention the "distinctive service" rendered by her husband in the erection of a monument (cut from stone mountain granite), "Way Down Upon De S'wanee Ribber," honoring the memory of Stephen Collins Foster, whose lilting melodies have touched the hearts of every land.

Georgia (Ficklen) Shankle of Augusta passed through the little town of Gray a few weeks ago en route to Macon to take her daughter, Julia Victoria, home from Wesleyan for the holidays. Belle (Stewart) Wooten lives along the route and was happy to have her old friend Georgia look her up for a brief visit.

Sallie (Lowrey) Wolfe, North, S. C., says "tell the girls I'm planning to come and bring my girl with curly hair just like mine in the old days, and my two six-footer sons." The three "children" are school teachers, but obeying Tennyson's injunction "Love thou the land," have recently purchased the old Wolfe homestead where their father was reared, and operate its farms in addition to the nearby home place where they grew up, thus relieving their father of the responsibility entailed in its management.

Zula (Ray) Mitchell's daughter, Ray, who is regional director for the girl scouts of the Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia region with headquarters at Cincinnati, recently suffered a painful accident. The hotel where she was stopping several weeks ago in Athens, Ohio, was burned, and Ray fell two stories, causing serious injuries. Her mother went to her, and is now nursing her back to health. There is hope for her permanent recovery.

Carrie Speer, Americus, Ga., will be at the reunion "even if she has to hobo," which is not at all probable. She rather rapped my knuckles for a former write-up saying I made her appear as a wishy-washy person, jumping from one thing to another. Nothing was farther from my intention, which meant to show that she is an unusually versatile person, whose active, agile and scintillating mind runs as freely in one direction as another and finds itself at home in any situation or circumstance! I'm going to bring her charming letter, full of the funniest Wesleyan reminiscences, to be read to our class at the reunion. I must quote one incident here: "I enjoyed the distinction of being the only girl applauded in class. We had forty pages of Land's History under Miss Elizabeth Allen, and I had only read twenty when she called on me to recite. I stood up-I'd been trained that way-and she exclaimed, 'Wait one minute, Miss Speer! Young ladies, I wish to commend Miss Speer for standing to recite. I wish you would all do so. Go on, Miss Speer.' 'But,' said I, 'standing is all I am going to do!' The applause was really embarrassing"!

Lutie Westcott is now in Tallahassee, Fla., at the Z. T. A. sorority house of the Florida State College for Women. We sympathize with her and her sisters in the death the last of October of their father, Mr. Samuel Westcott, in Macon.

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. R. Pitner (Allie Cleghorn), Summerville, Ga.

On account of the ill health of her husband, Allie (Cleghorn) Pitner moved from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Summerville, Ga., four years ago. Allie and her husband had made their home in Chattanooga since their marriage in 1894. Both were prominently identified in the church, club, and social life of that city. Mr. Pitner was a wholesale merchant. He was educated at Emory. Their children are J. R. Pitner, Jr., educated at Baylor and the University of the South at Sewanee, now in the manufacturing business in Chattanooga; Robert H. Pitner, graduate of the University of the South at Sewanee, an expert oil refiner and chemist at Canete, Peru, S. A., married to Thelma Louise Jamey of Chattanooga three years ago; William Cleghorn Pitner, graduate of the University of Virginia, now secretary and treasurer of the Sewanee Fuel and Iron Company of Coalmont, Tenn; Lynn Josephine Pitner, graduate of Newcomb College, Tulane University, New Orleans, now teacher in the local school; Ann Cleghorn Pitner, member of the graduating class of the Summerville High School.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. P. Coleman (Ida Mangham), Vineville Court Apt., Macon, Ga.

A very happy New Year to my classmates of 1890. As the perspective of our college days fades further into the distance, the Wesleyan ties grow stronger in my heart with the wish that we might meet oftener. May the coming year be filled with abundant blessings for you and yours.

Cordially,

Ida (Mangham) Coleman, Sec.

Venita (Tate) Anderson, sister of Colonel Sam Tate, trustee and benefactor of Wesleyan, donated the pink marble used in the floor and wainscoting of the Lanier Memorial room of the Washington Memorial Library in Macon. This room was formally opened February 3, Lanier's birthday.

1891

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. N. Ainsworth (Mary Nicholson), Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Julia (Allen) McCain was responsible for a delightful program given in Greenville, S. C., in January under the auspices of the Blue Ridge Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. A Greenville paper pronounced it a "program of marked discrimination and versatility."

Louise Hall, the beautiful daughter of Mary (Kennedy) Hall, was married October 2 to Lamar Trotti of New York City. The wedding, solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church, was one of the prettiest Macon has seen for some time. The church was exquisitely decorated with palms, dahlias and Easter lilies. Emma (Wise) Hall, aunt of the bride, played the pre-nuptial music. The maid of honor, bridesmaids, and junior bridesmaid all wore varying shades of maize. The wedding of Miss Hall and Mr. Trotti was of wide social interest throughout the south, and the weeks preceding the wedding were filled with social affairs in honor of the bride. Josephine Stetson, daughter of Josephine (Shaw) Stetson, was one of the lovely bridesmaids, coming from New York to be in the wedding.

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. C. Jarrell (Margaret Moore) 1079 Oxford Rd., Atlanta, Ga. Fannie Ross (Freeman) Taylor moved last October from Eustis to Ocala, Fla. Her address is 315 South Pine St. She is active in American Legion Auxiliary work, and is past president of the Dade City Unit, as well as one of the State Publicity Committee.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. O. Jones (Louise Evans), Newnan, Ga.

Laura Isabelle Poer, daughter of Maybelle (Bonnell) Poer and niece of Annie Sue (Bonnell) Pierce, '12, was married October 2 to James B. Smith of Bradenton, Fla. The bride is a great granddaughter of John M. Bonnell, for many years president of Wesleyan College.

1894

Class Secretary: Mrs. Lucy K. Johnson (Lucy Keen), Wesleyan Conservatory, Macon, Ga.

Clyde Lyndon Lenoir of N. C., writes that she is longing to see a reunion of the class of '94. Wouldn't that be wonderful?

Florrie Warren, a student of the Conservatory, is a niece of Neppie (Warren) Holland of Byron, Ga. We are glad to have Neppie's niece with us.

We regret to see Addie (Walker) Rhodes leave Macon and Wesleyan, but rejoice with her in the recognition of Mr. Rhodes' success in his work that has come to him in his promition to assistant general passenger agent of the Southern Railway system at Birmingham, Ala. He has been division passenger agent in Macon and in the twenty-seven years of service here has become a civic influence and favorite.

Best wishes for the year '29!

L. K. J.

1895

Class Secretary: Mary L. Johnston, 714 Forsyth St., Macon, Ga.

To Louise (Daniel) Metcalf and to Stella Daniel we extend sympathy on the death of their mother, Mrs. Sara Johnson Daniel December 15 at Louise's home in Atlanta.

Lily Mae (Mims) Means is now Mrs. J. Julius Cook, and her home is Elko, Ga.

Hermione Walker, daughter of Hermione (Ross) Walker was married November 10 to Mr. Preston Standish Stevens of Atlanta. The wedding was one of the most beautiful of Atlanta's fall weddings, taking place at St. Mark's Methodist Church at 8:30, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. Hermione (Ross) Walker has another daughter, Emily, who was maid of honor in her sister's wedding, and two sons, William Ross Walker of Richmond, Va., and Benjamin Pressley Walker of Atlanta.

From an Urbana, Ill., paper:

"Miss Margie Burks of the department of romance languages at the University of Illinois, in collaboration with her former master at the Centro de Estudios Histosicos in Madrid, Professor F. R. Morcuende, has prepared a new annotated edition for college classes of the student play, 'Ciencias Exactus' by Vital Aza.

"The play concerns student life in a private preparatory school for the University of Madrid, and is a representation of a genre that has had a long life under numerous names, but which Miss Burks chooses to term a 'farce'.

"The introduction to the play contains an account of Aza's life written from facts obtained from his family, and statement of the history of farce comedy. The illustrations have been made by the great naturalist, Angel Cabrera, who is a Knight of the Order of Alfonso XII and who has attained international reputation for his avocation, art.

"Miss Burks' book will appear soon in the Hispanic series whose editor-in-chief is Professor J. D. Fitz-Gerald of the department of romance languages. The play was performed by the Spanish club last year for the annual Spanish night.

"As is generally known, after spending three years in Spain, Miss Burks returned to this country and was connected with De Pauw University, Greencastle, Indiana. Three years ago she accepted a place in the department of romance languages of the University of Illinois, where she is at present."

As the first 1929 issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae reaches the "old" school girls, the super-importance of our alumnae magazine is recognized anew. Ten years (speak it easy) have slipped by since the class of the GOLDEN HEART started their last school year out together as grand old seniors. But thanks to the bobbed hair, permanent waves, and abbreviated youthful lines of dress, none of us feel the first ten years ex-collegiate have been detrimental.

Irma (Clark) Newton will contribute notes in the next issue of the Wesleyan Alumnae, so be among those present by sending in your news items to her.

Little Sister Day, Elizabeth (Day) Nunnally, is now living in Jacksonville, Fla.

Our class president, Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore, is spending this year in Atlanta at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Jenkins, 1280 Oxford Road. Her husband is getting his master's degree at Emory. While on the subject of Rosaline, I must tell you that her little two-year old daughter has a suit of gorgeous golden curly hair that simply lays Mary Pickford in the shade!

Nothing of a particular startling nature about the members of our group has come to me, but just as our scribe par excellent "K. T." said in the last issue, "WATCH US GROW" would be a suitable slogan for our organization. To substantiate this fact, I will begin the personal mention column by announcing the arrival of little Jane Chandler, daughter of Mary Frank (McClure) Chandler, as one of the last additions to our family circle. Mary Frank lives at Canton, Ga., now under the name of Mrs. Boyd Chandler.

Upon the Lovalty Fund Depends the Future Development of the Colleges of America

What Shall Weslevan's Place Among Them Be?

"There are those that maintain that many of the small privately endowed colleges must go out of existence during the next two decades.

"Very few of them, if any, certainly can survive and maintain the level to which they aspire without greatly increased resources."

President Coffman of the University of Minnesota.

"There are three types of support for educational institutions. The first is the very rich individual donor. The second is the intensive campaign or 'drive'; I wish it had never been produced; it is temporary, it is emotional, it is expensive. The third is the fund idea-steady giving, non-emotional, rational, permanent, the one sound, sane type of support whether it be financial or spiritual, moral, intellectual."

President Little of the University of Michigan.

"It would be a disastrous day for college education in America if a few very large givers were to replace the great host of small givers.

"Great help can be given by small sums that can be regularly counted upon."

President King of Oberlin.

"Every citizen should have some interests outside his own particular life and business which he supports either with money or service."

President Wilbur of Stanford University.

"The Yale Fund is of the greatest value to the University because it represents not only financial help, but the love and affection, and often times the self-denial and sacrifice of the great body of Yale graduates."
